By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Granite City Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison was officially censured by the City Council on Tuesday for his refusal to have his department haul away the tree leaves collected in the city's leaf collection program.

The aldermen voted 10-3 with one abstention to take the action, which may be the first-ever censure of an elected official by the city.

Last month, Harrison refused to have his workers haul the leaves collected at the Sanitation Department, citing a lack of authority. Workers in his department, saying the hauling was their responsibility, threatened to file a union grievance if anyone else hauled the leaves.

At a special City Council meeting to address the issue, the aldermen arranged to have the leaves, then overflowing the collection area at the Sanitation Department, hauled away by workers of the Wastewater Treatment Plant. Harrison did not attend that meeting, but he did file a union grievance.

Later that week, Harrison changed his mind and allowed his workers to haul away the leaves, although he still said he did not have the authority to do so.

City attorney Mark Goldenberg told the council Tuesday that the street superintendent has the responsibility in all situations to act on both the specific responsibilities given to the street department and the directions given by the City Council.

Cruse: System 'just doesn't work'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Mayor Von Dee Cruse said there is a very good reason no other city in Illinois has an elected street superintendent.

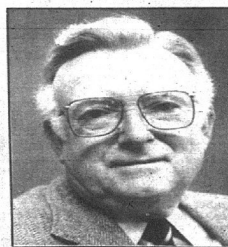

"It just doesn't work and it never has," Cruse said.

"That's nothing against the present or any of the past street superintendents. It's not the person that's wrong, it's the position."

Cruse said the City Council's vote Tuesday to censure Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison is just the latest in a continuing line of confrontations between the aldermen and an elected superintendent.

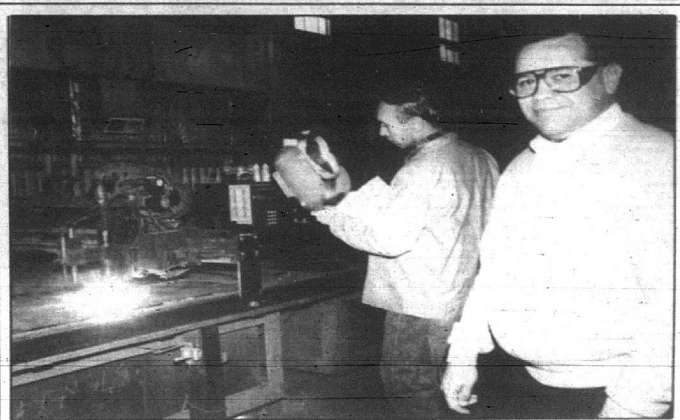

"No matter who was superintendent, who was mayor and who were aldermen, there have always been confrontations," Cruse said. "And there will always be confrontations as long as we have a city government."

New name, new direction Sheet metal firm moves toward fabricating

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

A 40-year-old Granite City institution is being given a new name along with a new direction.

Granite Sheet Metal Works Inc. is in the process of becoming GSM, according to David Partney, president and owner.

He purchased sole ownership of the family business, founded by his father, Don Partney Sr., from his brothers, Don and Dan, in August and said this week the name change is "something I've been thinking about for some time."

For now, Dave Partney said, the corporate logo "de-emphasizes the original name" in favor of GSM with an eye toward eventually dropping it altogether.

"When people hear 'sheet metal' they think of light-gauge stuff like heating and air conditioning ducts," he said.

"Actually, that has been only a small part of our business for a long time. We offer high-tech, state-of-the-art steel and stainless steel fabricating for industry throughout the region."

Dave Partney said the company has designed, built and installed everything from hoppers to conveyors to complex dust control installations. Major customers include Granite City Steel, Anheuser-Busch, Bunge Corp. and Olin Corp.

Committee investigating fire station manning

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

The Granite City administration may have a better idea on handling understaffed emergency services in the future.

The Fire, Water and Ambulance Committee met Wednesday to compile recommendations for the city government concerning staff problems within the three Granite City fire stations.

On three occasions in mid-December, on Jan. 3 and again Tuesday — the West Granite City fire station has been temporarily closed for periods said to exceed one hour due to lack of manpower.

The issue was raised again Tuesday night at the City Council meeting by Alderman Dan Partney, who said the city needs guidelines to enable it to make the necessary public safety decisions.

"We do not want the citizens to suffer harm due to a lack of response time from our emergency services," Partney said.

The closings occurred when the fire department was unable to meet the staff requirements of the department's labor contract.

The previous labor contract noted that a total of 14 emergency service operators must man the three fire stations in the district at all times.

Whenever the personnel on duty would have dropped below 14, workers were placed on overtime, officials said.

Currently, overtime is being avoided due to budget considerations.

Alderman Craig Tarpo, a member of the Fire, Water and Ambulance Committee, said part of the new contract requires a certain amount of staffing per piece of fire equipment, still totaling 14.

"When everybody shows, then it's no problem," said Tarpo. "But when people don't show up, there are problems."

The department staffs two shifts with 19 men and a third with 18. Each fireman works 24-hour shifts followed by 48 hours off.

Three firefighters called in sick last Friday. But Tarpo said sick leave is not the only problem.

He said a day off is given to each firefighter every 26 calendar days because of the unique work schedule, to avoid paying overtime and exceeding Federal Labor Standards Act rules. He said this requires there to be two men off each day.

Partney said he realizes there are budgetary problems and constraints on overtime, but closing down a fire house or a vehicle in service may not be the answer.

A motion was approved at the council meeting Tuesday asking that the fire chief prepare statistical information on the operation of the fire department and ambulance service.

Primary jeopardized by dispute over map

SPRINGFIELD — Time for a March 17 primary could run out this week.

If new legislative districts are not made final by the end of this week, it could be "impossible" to hold the March 17 primary election on schedule, Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said.

As expected, the Republican-dominated Legislative Redistricting Commission remained split along partisan lines Monday, approving a Republican-sponsored redistricting plan just hours before a court-ordered deadline.

The continuing map flap throws the issue back to the Illinois Supreme Court, which rejected the first GOP proposal last month as unacceptable and unfair.

The losing party in the high court decision is expected to take an appeal to the U.S. District Court in Chicago, where a case is already pending.

"If they don't do something final this week, we're going to really be dead in the water (for March 17)," Bowles said.

Normally, the candidates for the primary election would by now have been determined and the ballot configurations sent to the State Board of Elections for approval, Bowles said Monday.

However, since the boundaries of the new legislative districts are still unclear, candidates have not yet even filed nominating petitions.

Bowles said if the redistricting issue was not settled this week, it may also be impossible to get absentee ballots printed and mailed in time for March.

She said she anticipated that the State Board of Elections would take the lead in urging the courts or lawmakers to postpone the election date.

Dixon faces opponent at home

U.S. Senate candidate Al Hofeld is seeking support on enemy turf.

Hofeld, a 55-year-old Chicago area lawyer, hopes to wrest the Democratic nomination from two-term U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Bellefonte, March 17.

Also seeking the nomination is Carol Mosley Braun, Cook County recorder of deeds.

Hofeld met Tuesday with reporters in the office of Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles. She said she was not endorsing anyone in the race but was unhappy with Dixon.

"He has voted with the Republican administration a large percentage of the time, and he is not representing our interests here," Bowles said.

Democratic State Central Committeeman Bruce Cook of Belleville said Dixon was lucky Braun was in the race. She and Hofeld probably will split the anti-Dixon vote, Cook said.

"A lot of people are mad at Dixon over the (Clarence) Thomas vote," Cook said. He said Dixon had been enormously helpful to the Metro East but that there always has been an anti-Dixon element among Democrats statewide.

It was Dixon's vote to confirm President Bush's nomination of Clarence Thomas to the U.S. Supreme Court that propelled Hofeld into the race.

"The Thomas nomination set me off," Hofeld said. "I felt let down, I felt betrayed, I felt frustrated."

If Hofeld spends a great deal of money, attacks Dixon as a conservative and persuades Braun to withdraw from the race, he could upset Dixon, Cook said.

He described Hofeld as an outstanding attorney and "enormously wealthy."

"I've got a shot," Hofeld told reporters.

Hofeld said he would not take special-interest money but would not be outspent by Dixon, who he said may spend $2 million to $3 million on the primary campaign.

"I'm in the race to the end, and I'm going to match him issue for issue and dollar for dollar," Hofeld said.

County's violent crime rate drops But felony charges set record

Madison County's chief prosecutor calls the county "an island of calm" despite the record number of felony charges filed in 1991.

Prosecutors filed 1,769 felonies in 1991, compared to 1,310 in 1990. It was one of the largest increases in cases filed in the 3rd Circuit Court.

"It is a new record," Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said of the felonies. "The significant thing is that we didn't have near the murders that we've had in past years."

"We are an island of relative peace in a metropolitan area of increasing violent crime, and I'm glad to say that at the start of a new year."

While murders, home invasions and other violent crimes are at record levels in St. Clair County and the St. Louis area, the numbers declined last year in Madison County, Haine said.

Burglaries, drug offenses and child abuse and sexual abuse cases have increased, he said, accounting for the higher number of felony cases.

Last year prosecutors put a record number of people behind bars. Figures have not been tallied for 1991, but Haine said his office saw nearly 400 people go to jail or prison.

"Last year we had a record year in people going to prison," he said.

Though the number of felonies filed was up, the number of total cases filed dropped from 1990 to 1991. A record 78,669 cases, including all types of civil and criminal cases, were filed in 1990, compared to 77,300 cases in 1991.

The decline in the total number of Circuit Court cases was due mainly to the number of traffic violations dropping from 51,494 to 44,443.

The number of lawsuits seeking less than $15,000 in damages dropped from 1,620 to 1,767.

Lawsuits seeking less than $15,000 in damages — excluding small claims — increased from 942 to 955.

Small claims jumped from 5,931 to 6,367.

Juvenile cases went from 626 to 692, while misdemeanor cases dropped.

Divorce filings increased from 1,691 to 1,753. Family cases rose from 1,229 to 1,338. Probate cases increased slightly from 799 to 805.

The increase in the number of felony charges, Haine said, stemmed from investigators going after that extra bit of evidence to help prosecutors get a conviction.

"When I came into office three years ago, there wasn't that cooperation," Haine said.

Police officers nowadays "are willing to go that extra mile to get that extra piece of information to get a conviction. It's been a good year."

Area residents get chance to air health-care opinions

Health care and growing health-care costs will be the focus of three special town hall meetings in the area next week. Hosted by U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, the meetings are designed to provide input from local residents prior to consideration of the issue by Congress, Costello said.

The meetings — among 13 in the county — will be held on Tuesday in Brooklyn and Thursday in Venice and Granite City. In announcing the meetings, Costello noted the growing interest in health-care issues.

"The most prominent issue facing members of Congress today is the growing cost of health care, and how to improve our health-care system," Costello said.

"Before Congress passes any comprehensive health-care plan this year, I want to hear from my constituents as to what they feel are the greatest needs. "When hard-working families in Illinois can't get the insurance they need, or can't afford to see a doctor, then we need to come up with a better system," Costello added.

Costello also said he would hold 12 other town hall meetings in January, continuing his commitment to keep in close touch with his constituents.

"Town meetings are an opportunity for me to hear the views, questions and concerns of those I represent in Congress, on a personal and face-to-face basis," Costello said.

The schedule of area meetings is:

Monday, Jan. 13: 9 a.m., Alton City Hall, 101 E. Third; 11 a.m., Hartford Village Hall, 597 N. Delmar; and 1 p.m., Wood River City Hall, 111 N. Wood River Ave.

County studying grant for sheltered care home

Madison County officials are investigating the possibility of a federal grant to help build a new sheltered care home.

Money might be available through a program of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, County Board member Robert Stille said. He is chairman of the board's Health Institutions Committee.

"We're trying to track it down," said Cheryl Jouett, administrator of the county's Community Development program. "We understand there might be grant money available, as opposed to loan money."

The financial health of the county's sheltered care and nursing homes has troubled county officials for several years. Tax revenues earmarked for the homes provide roughly enough to operate the homes, but little for improvements at the decades-old facilities.

Jouett said the HUD program helps finance housing for senior citizens. Historically, she said, the program aids non-government, non-profit organizations. The state's attorney's office will be asked to look into whether the county could participate in the HUD program, Jouett said. "That's a legal question," she added.

The program might provide up to 90 percent of the cost of a new sheltered care home, Stille said. He said he thinks the remainder could be raised through donations.

No such assistance is available for the nursing home, but its finances are in better shape than the sheltered care home, Stille said.

"I think the nursing home could probably fare on its own until we can come up with some way to build a new nursing home," he said.

Tax checkoff for the homeless

Illinois residents can help thousands of homeless people by writing in a donation to the Homeless Assistance Fund on line 13d of their 1991 Illinois Income Tax Form.

"Job layoffs, unexpected medical bills, home fires or even one late paycheck are enough to leave many people destitute and out on the streets," Public Aid Director Phil Bradley said. "The Homeless Assistance Fund gives Illinois citizens a real chance to help the more than 50,000 persons who will be homeless this year in the state."

This is the third year for the Homeless Assistance Fund, which has raised more than a half million dollars since it began in 1989.

Editorials

Speeding crackdown helpful

The Illinois State Police's covert speeding details have been everything but secretive, with Sgt. Dave Jung showing up on a grass-mowing tractor or dump truck in the national media as well as the front pages of local newspapers.

Jung's contention that poor compliance and radar detectors make the highways unsafe for the law-abiding motorists is obvious to anyone who spends much time motoring up and down the interstates. Those factors make the covert plan fair.

The Illinois State Police program is taking positive strides to reverse a negative trend. Increased safety for motorists and Illinois Department of Transportation workers will be a welcome result.

Motorists should be thankful for the improved safety. And they should be thankful to have learned through the media, rather than via a summons, that every old pickup truck, snow plow or any other Illinois Department of Transportation vehicle could be a radar patrol.

Is this justice for all?

In our system of government, the ultimate method of righting a wrong is through the civil court system.

The system, though, became a bit less democratic Jan. 1 in Madison County and several other counties across Illinois.

A new fee schedule effective with the new year boosted filing fees to $172 from $58 for civil lawsuits seeking damages of at least $15,000. The charge to demand a jury went to $180 from $50. Other filing fees and court costs were also increased.

The new fee schedule was enacted by the Legislature and signed recently by Gov. Jim Edgar.

Perhaps to some people, those do not seem like huge increases. For others, though, we believe the higher fees will be prohibitive.

And will there be less demand for a trial by a jury of one's peers now that the cost has soared? We think that is also likely.

'Natural law' in nation's heritage

By Robert Morris, who has been a newspaper reporter, teacher, attorney, judge and president of two universities. He was counsel to three U.S. Senate committees and is chairman of America's Future.

An author and lecturer, he lives in Mantoloking, N.J.

The Senate Judiciary Committee hearings on the nomination of Judge Clarence Thomas as a U.S. Supreme Court justice brought to the surface the often neglected existence of "natural law" in the decisions of our judicial system.

Natural law is no stranger to the development of our country. When the Declaration of Independence announced our birth on July 4, 1776, natural law burst forth in its first and final paragraphs: "When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them..."

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

"We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions..."

This is "natural law" as discussed in the Judge Thomas hearings. You can see that the founders of this country based our historic Declaration squarely upon natural law.

Our constitution was not ratified until 12 years later. The colonies had been ruled by acts of the British Parliament and English common law. The British had no constitution. Common law began to be shaped with the Magna Carta in 1215 A.D. and developed during the reigns of the English kings who were interrelated with the church, which provided infusions of natural law. This was our heritage.

Our Constitution does not say that all men are created equal; that statement is in the Declaration of Independence.

Yet, this slice of natural law made it possible for us to eliminate slavery in the 19th century.

This is how the blending of the acts of Parliament and the common law with infusions of the natural law developed.

As British Justice Hyde said, "Although there are no positive words in the statute requiring that the party shall be heard, yet the justice of the common law will supply the omission of the legislature."

The right of privacy, which came to be embraced as law, does not exist in the Constitution. It was read into the common law by our Supreme Court. There were other such infusions of natural law into our judicial positions.

They should be welcomed and natural law should not be decried or belittled as it was during the confirmation hearings.

Natural law was at the very root of our American heritage.

County transit system innovative

Motorists too often take for granted their means of transportation. Only a commuter with no wheels can really appreciate the service offered by the Madison County Transit District.

We share the pride of district officials after the transit authority was recognized as the nation's most innovative public transit system by the Public Transit Innovation Journal.

After years of growing pains, the district has come into its own, with ever-increasing ridership figures, routes and equipment.

The award by the transit journal cites the district's success in providing more affordable, accessible and convenient bus service than had been provided by the regional Bi-State Development Agency.

Indeed, in the last couple of years, financial problems have caused Bi-State to reduce its services. But with a little ingenuity, the county transit district has been able to put its quarter-cent sales tax to good use.

Leadership has been a key since formation of the authority in 1981. State's Attorney Bill Halpe of Alton was chairman during the district's first seven years. He was succeeded by County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer in 1988.

Both men are quick to give the other credit. From our perspective, Haine built a solid foundation, and Hagnauer finished the house. It's been within the last few years that some of the district's most significant improvements have occurred.

Local service provided by Bi-State with full-size buses has been replaced and supplemented in Madison County with lighter, smaller and more efficient vans and minibuses.

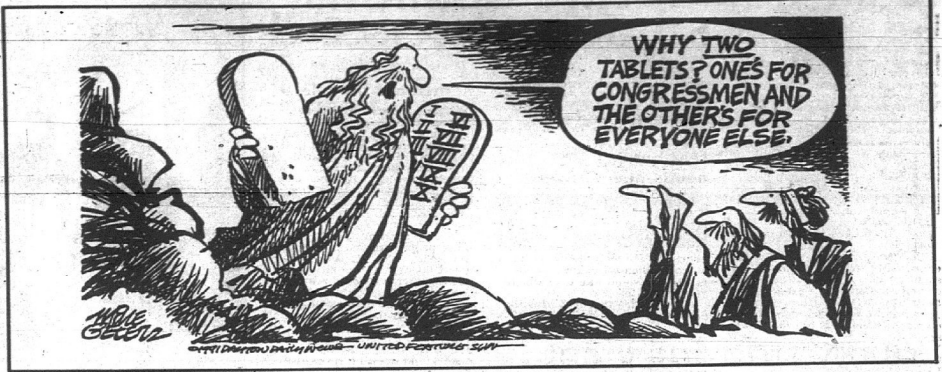

Ridership during September was 62,000, and that figure continues to climb.

Today, there are more bus stops and more frequent trips between communities throughout the county.

The district's size is reflected in the large fleet of buses parked at the headquarters in Mitchell. And that presence is about to be expanded with the recent decision to build a service depot in downtown Granite City.

Environmentally, mass transit spells only minor relief from the millions of gas-guzzling automobiles clogging the nation's highways. But as a low-cost transportation alternative, it is a major community service.

We are grateful that Madison County has such a good transit district.

Congress still maintaining its double standard

By Thomas F. Roesser, a former fellow of the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard. The writer is president of Thomas F. Roesser and Associates, a Chicago consulting firm.

Two senators—Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and John Danforth, R-Mo., are in the news spotlight. They stood by proudly as President Bush signed into law the Civil Rights Bill of 1991.

That bill codifies the Supreme Court ruling of Griggs vs. Duke (no relation to David) Power Co. Briefly, the decision had overturned the 1964 Civil Rights Act which only affirmed equality of opportunity in hiring.

Under Griggs the court declared that, if the percentage of minorities in an employer's workforce did not match the percentage of minorities in the appropriate regional population, the employer could be held guilty of racism and tried before a jury.

To rectify this, the employer could either hire by quota or "by merit" and prove in court that his practice was a "business necessity."

In their efforts to revive John, a recent Supreme Court decision reverted to the old equality of opportunity. Hence, the Democratic-controlled Congress determined, with liberal Republican help, to undo the old equality notion and return to quotas.

Our guest

Bush signed off, insisting it was not quotas. But, in reality, his own version was a quota bill, so there was much ado about nothing.

What riles me is not quotas that private businesses have to observe, standing trial before jurors of their peers, but the sleazy way Congress has evaded its own adherence to this law.

In the past, Congress exempted itself from adhering to the EEOC, OSHA and hiring the handicapped and disabled because of a convenient fiction. It maintained that, due to a lofty separation-of-powers argument, it is exempt.

None other than those twin pillars of rectitude, House Speaker Foley and Senate Majority Leader Mitchell, who ordain all other ers must obey the law, say they are above it. Reason: It would be unconstitutional for Congress to be subservient to regulations that stem from the executive branch.

But at bottom it's a dodge. No serious constitutional scholar can doubt that adherence to minimum wage or other regulations would inhibit Congressional independence. For proof: James Madison in "Federalist 57."

As a result of public outrage, Congress has made for itself a "sweetheart deal" on hiring of staff. Instead of being bound by a regulatory agency, as business must, Congress will now set up a ruling body of peers.

Recourse comes from the so-called "ethics" committees of both houses (we know how tough they are). Finally, instead of a jury trial, a case can go to the D.C. Circuit Court. That's all.

The current plan of power and privilege is preserved for Congress by itself. Its hiring practices are wantonly discriminatory.

Co-author Danforth employs no Asians, American Indians, Hispanics, Pacific Islanders or Alaska natives on his staff, population segments private employers will have to agree to. And rather than hire blacks, Danforth has an abundance of white women. And they're not equally paid at that. The average woman earns $26,434 a year, while men make $44,146.

What of that champion of egalitarianism, Ted Kennedy? Of his total employees, 50 are women, 35 are men, 60 are white, only 16 are "minorities" and he fails to distinguish which are African Americans. Meaning very few.

And, yes, women on Kennedy's staff earn an average of $30,480, men $47,594.

Because Congress has once again evaded its own law, that clip-clop-clip you hear in the distance is the distant galloping of the Man on Horseback, the fearful apparition of revolt against hypocrisy as practiced by our rulers in Washington.

That's why our friends in D.C. are getting the goat of voters in the United States. When this story gets through the media and we learn about what's really happening in Washington, the truth will not care. It will sting.

But if properly acted upon, it will set us free.

Emergency staff, firemen praised

TO THE EDITOR:

The family of John D. Zotti extends thanks to the men of the Granite City Fire Department who were on duty the evening of Dec. 2 and were called to our home when John suddenly became ill.

Granite City Fire Department members Art Adamson, Ron Ashby, Nip Hagnauer, Greg Hoese, Kevin Kleitz and John Koskie arrived within minutes.

In their efforts to revive John, they exhibited a high degree of compassion and efficiency which would make any citizen comfortable knowing that Granite City has these professionals, should they ever be in need such as we were.

We also thank Dr. Dan Barr, Nurse Jackie Haug, Father Finnian and the emergency room staff all of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, who all were there to comfort us while we waited.

These people will always be in our thoughts and prayers, as their unselfish efforts helped us cope with our sorrow that evening.

Man fed up with cable rate hikes of recent years

TO THE EDITOR:

Although I am not a resident of Madison, I would just like to take a moment to commend Mayor Belle and the Madison City Council for having the fortitude and insight to "go on record" as objecting to Cencom Cable's rate hike.

Perhaps if more mayors and city councils would take such stands, big, greedy corporations with no conscience and signs in their eyes would get the idea that John Q. Public is fed up with paying for their profit-sharing and year-end bonuses.

They are never going to listen unless the public and "city management" take a stand and tell them: "Enough is enough."

I personally wrote Cencom management a letter after receiving their notice in my last bill, telling them what I felt about their increase, (described) as a matter of "economic necessity."

They must really believe that we, the public, are stupid enough to believe that an almost 200 percent increase in the basic rate for cable television over a period of five or six years is economic necessity.

What I do believe, based on their track record, is that some type of regulation needs to be put back into effect because they obviously can't regulate themselves.

Or, get the Tri-City communities to develop a cable TV service of our own.

Perhaps a little good old American competition will help them realize we are fed up with them.

One of the reasons my 83-year-old dad decided to give up his cable TV was that, despite Cencom's "generous" 10 percent discount to senior citizens, he is on a small fixed income and just plain couldn't afford them any more.

I support any action directed at trying to establish and develop an "are" cable network.

It would like to hear more about it from all our local political leaders.

Official should not be a puppet

TO THE EDITOR:

The City Council meetings on Channel 18 are beginning to look like a Three Stooges comedy.

If the council had allowed the citizens to burn leaves, there wouldn't have been any problem with leaf collection and blocked sewers.

One alderman's vote was influenced by his 9-year-old daughter, who was so concerned about the air pollution in Granite City.

The aldermen all agree that Granite City ranks first or second in the state for poor air quality, but they turn their backs and don't want to see where the air pollutants are coming from.

We finally have a street superintendent who refuses to be a yes man for a few members of the City Council, and now their egos are hurt. One alderman even went so far as to ask the city attorney if the superintendent could be ousted.

The Press-Record got caught up in their charade, too, and printed an editorial on the subject.

Be your own man, Mr. Harrison. Run the Street Department the way you want to run it.

And don't get yourself tied to a string so a few members of the City Council can manipulate you like the puppet they want you to be.

Program to ease buying residence

TO THE EDITOR:

Many of your readers are now making their New Year's resolutions for 1992, and I would like to offer an idea.

For many young working families, the biggest barrier to home ownership is saving for a down payment.

While mortgage rates are very low right now, potential homebuyers still need to come up with 10 percent or more as a down payment.

It's much easier to save for that down payment if you are with the Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME) program, administered by the state treasurer's office.

HOME is a personal savings plan designed to help first-time homebuyers put aside funds for a down payment. Participants can save at their own speed, through automatic withdrawals from their bank accounts, payroll deductions or a coupon book.

After three years in the HOME program, participants receive tax benefits and priority consideration in the Illinois Housing Development Authority low-interest mortgage loan program.

Further, HOME participants will get financial counseling and a HOME newsletter filled with consumer tips on how to save, shop for and buy their first home.

You say your New Year's resolution is to exercise more? Well, exercise your imagination about owning your own home.

It's easy to realize the American dream through the HOME program. Just call our toll-free HOME-hot line: 1-800-525-1164.

Student letters call for action at school, city hall

Editor's note: As part of a class writing assignment the students in Mrs. Mary Dame's third and fifth hour Composition classes submitted the following "letters to the editor" at the Press-Record office.

Leaf burning needs new answer

To the editor: I am writing to you because I have a problem. This is not a problem just for me, it is a problem for the whole Granite City community. The last few years it has been illegal to burn leaves. Disposal of these leaves is what I would like to bring to your attention.

I am aware that leaf burning causes air pollution, and in a town like Granite City, with a steel mill, we already have more than enough air pollution. However, our other choice is to bag the leaves and pay someone to haul them away. Many people cannot afford this extra expense. Plus, these bags are filling up our landfills. Eventually this will tempt people to burn leaves illegally, or dump them along a back road.

I know that burning leaves is not the perfect solution to the problem of leaf disposal, but it is obvious that making leaf burning illegal is also not the perfect solution.

More should be done to eliminate smoking

To the editor: I really do believe smoking is getting out of hand in the United States and in our city. Smoking is not only bad for you, but it is also bad for your environment. People can get diseases such as cancer from smoking. This is becoming a real problem, that has to be stopped.

Many teenagers are becoming more and more addicted to smoking everyday. They are going to ruin their lives by doing this. If we can stop teenagers from smoking now, they can lead a good and healthy life.

Smoking should be banned in the United States. We should get rid of all cigarettes, cigars, and other smoking products. There should be a law on smoking anything, whether it is a cigarette, cigar or pot. Smoking is hurting many people.

TONY LUCIE
Granite City

Leaf burning causes pollution, lung damage

To the editor: I think leaf burning should be banned. Burning leaves causes lung damage, pollution, and heart disease. I think people should start compost piles or an organization should start up that will haul leaves to a compost pile for free.

People with lung problems can't even go outside when people are burning leaves. I have asthma and if I go outside I can barely breathe.

MICHAEL BRISTOL
Granite City

Remember homeless during your holidays

To the editor: I am writing concerning all the uninhabited buildings in the downtown Granite City area. To many people it's not important, but to me they should be remodeled or rebuilt. It's Christmas time and there are people who don't have a home or job. Therefore they have no food or a warm place to stay. But most people don't think about that. All they want is to have a great holiday. If the city would get together we could restore these buildings and give these people a great holiday also.

Maybe it's too much to ask of the people I don't know. But all I'm asking is that while you're at home eating your Christmas dinner and opening presents remember those people who don't have anything.

ROB GREGORY

Action needed to save environment

To the editor: I am writing to you because I am concerned about our environment. The burning of leaves, garbage and other items are adding to our pollution problems we are already facing.

Many of my neighbors burn leaves and other things. Many times my parents have been called to the city and the police hoping that they might do something about this. But nothing ever seems to be done about it. Other neighborhoods have the same problem with this type of pollution. Not long ago there was an article in the paper about open burning of leaves and other items. The article also stated that open burning is illegal in the city and will be enforced. This article was ordered by the City Council of Granite City. I think if more people were concerned about the environment and if the city officials act upon the complaints from citizens this problem would be solved.

Teens should have freedom to smoke

To the editor: I am a 15 year old girl and I smoke. The reason I am writing is because I totally disagree with the new law that has been passed. The one that states you have to be 18 or older to purchase cigarettes. And, if you get caught smoking and you are under age you could possibly get fined. My parents allow me to smoke why should the government try to argue with that? They will not be able to stop us.

Lots of people brag about this being the land of the free. Then why shouldn't we have our freedom?

Leaf burning would clean streets

To the editor: Granite City has created a problem by not allowing leaf burning in the city limits. Our aldermen voted (7 to 5) against allowing us to burn our leaves. Now we have people raking them out of their yards into the street. Now sewers are being clogged by the leaves that have been put there. Some people have decided to do nothing with their leaves. The wind can blow them into their neighbors' yards.

Granite City needs to allow leaf burning. This would be a solution to this problem. It would keep our streets clean and it would help to keep the sewers open. It would also help to make our city look better.

Vote to open campus at lunch

To the editor: I am a student at Granite City High School. I am very disappointed in the fact that we are not allowed to go off of the campus for lunch. I believe that the school board would like to be able to go off of the campus for lunch. I also believe that most of the businesses would like this idea, too. The fast food restaurants would benefit from this and earn at least twice the amount of money they do now, and probably more. Most of the time, students complain about how terrible the school's food tastes. All together everybody would be more happy.

To solve this problem, our principal should have a vote for the students to decide whether or not it is acceptable to have open campus at lunch-time. If there is not enough votes then we would have lunch the way we do now. But, if more people vote to go off campus for lunch, then we should have open campus during lunch time.

Leaf burning ban causes sewer problems

To the editor: I am writing you a letter because I am very upset about the law that was passed about burning leaves. I am very happy we are all trying to help the environment, but the city is not looking to good with all the leaves lying around. If we do not do something our sewers are going to get stopped up and then we will have more problems. I can not understand why we can not burn and all the surrounding areas around us can still burn and pollute. I think, however, the city should at least give us a place to take the leaves to get rid of any day of the week anytime. I would appreciate you taking this matter into consideration.

Power company patch leaves large hole

To the editor: There is a big hole on the road down the street that was made by Illinois Power Company. On about Nov. 22, 1991 the Power Company ran a gas line. When they did this job they dug a hole next to the road they also tore up the road while doing this job. After the job they put a little asphalt in the hole that the asphalt packed down in about two days.

I think the Power Company should either have a professional that can do the job right to do their patching or they should get better equipment to do the job.

AARON BURKEY

Smoking causes more than health problems

The topic I chose to write to you has to do with the smoking problem at our high school. I know I'm not the first person to write about this subject, but I hope you'll take time to read my letter.

It's a rule at GCHS that no one is to have or use tobacco products on campus. Many people are breaking this rule and as a result are being suspended. Many people who don't smoke are afraid to use the restroom.

I think due to the growing number of smokers, the school board should consider giving the smokers a place to go out of the way of the nonsmokers and make the restrooms to be used for what it is intended.

As a result, it would keep kids out of the office, in school and out of trouble. I know with some people if it isn't one thing, it's another, but I'm sure it would cut down on the problem. It would also give the teachers and monitors much less to worry about. Nobody can completely stop a kid from smoking if he or she likes it.

I know its against the law for kids under 18 to smoke, but I don't really think it's the state's choice. I don't agree with all of the new laws that banned smoking in public places except the hospital and airplanes, of course. People who smoke have just as much right to smoke as the people who don't smoke have the right not to be around it. People are not bad because they smoke. Many people are around cigarettes all of their lives. Parents are lucky if all their kids does is smoke.

City should lift leaf burning ban

To the editor: I am writing this letter to tell you how upset I am about the law that bans leaf burning. It is true that leaf burning does cause air-pollution, but what are we suppose to do with our leaves? A lot of people are just leaving their leaves and it looks a mess. They also leave them in the street and it causes the sewers to back-up.

I think the city should allow us to burn leaves.

New state laws should be printed in paper

To the editor: When I read the Granite City Journal and Press Record it seems that the new laws or amendments in the Illinois Legislation are never printed. Why is that? Being a resident of Illinois I feel that we should know what kind of changes in the laws for Illinois are being made.

Half an hour is not a healthy lunch break

To the editor: I'm writing you about the lunch hours of Granite City High School. It's only a half hour.

A half hour is not enough time to eat everyday and be healthy. We are among hundreds of kids who all have to wait in line, and waiting in line alone can take 10, 15, maybe even 20 minutes. This causes us to eat faster than normal. Doing so everyday can cause weight problems. Many kids are brought to think that it's normal. Doing so everyday can cause their problem when it really how fast they eat.

To stop this, the school board should allow us an hour to eat so we can have time not to continue this bad habit. Please try to help today's overweight society by publishing this letter. Thank you.

Solutions needed to U.S. drinking problem

To the editor: Drinking is one of the foremost causes of deaths in the U.S. Drinking causes family problems, health problems, and social problems. Drinking can cause liver damage, and brain damage to unborn babies. Also it can cause accidents and kill many people. Plus drinking can cause severe job problems or even loss, and severe mental emotions and family problems not to mention home loss.

Drinking should be restricted by alcohol by a special I.D. to the checker with a code bar so it cannot be duplicated by forgers. Or restrict the amount of alcohol that can be bought by an individual. And you could have a statewide record of all the people 21 and over and limit so much per month. These actions could be responsible for the safety of hundreds or even thousands of lives a year.

Not pretty

Neither team great as Devils beat Trojans, 40-33

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Red Devils and Trojans have played a lot of games over the years. Tuesday's was definitely one of them.

The Red Devils and Trojans have played a lot of great games over the years. Tuesday's was definitely not one of them.

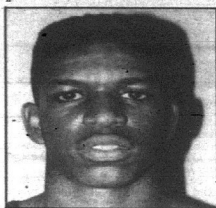

Venice jumped out to a 32-12 lead in the first half, then hung on throughout an excruciating second half for a 40-33 win at the Venice High School gym. The Devils (9-4) somehow won despite scoring only eight points in the second half. The Trojans (6-4), now losers of four in a row, got as close as 35-33 on Cerryn Macon's three-pointer with 6:58 left. But, incredibly, Madison did not score another point.

"That's ridiculous," said Trojan coach Al Collins. "Maybe we peaked out early in the fourth quarter. I wish I could say it was good defense for both teams, but it wasn't."

Venice coach Clinton Harris wasn't much happier than Collins, despite the win.

"We did everything right in the first half, then it was completely the opposite after that," he said. "I guess we got comfortable with a 16-point lead."

Venice center Marcus Franklin, one of three ex-Madison players now at Venice, was awesome in the first half. He had eight blocked shots in the game to go with 11 points and 12 rebounds. He rebounded and got a slam dunk at the buzzer for a 20-9 Devil lead after one quarter.

Marcus Franklin

8 blocked shots

Then he went coast to coast for another slam and a 30-11 lead.

It was 32-12 before Madison got the last two baskets of the half. One of those was by senior guard Ron Lott — but those were his only two points of the game as he made just one of 10 shots. Center Ronnie Harris had only five points on 2-of-10 shooting. Madison made only 15 of 56 shots (27 percent). Venice shot only 35 percent (17 of 48).

The Devils scored only four points in each of the last two quarters and seemed to lose their poise in the third quarter. But the Trojans couldn't hit anything in the fourth quarter and were victimized by some offensive fouls.

"I disagreed with all those calls," said Collins. "It was all the same official, one we've had trouble with in the past. That stopped us cold."

"But we didn't play well enough to win. Venice was getting three or four shots every time in the first half. We had the talent to come back in the second half, but we couldn't hit anything after a while."

It was 37-33 for almost four minutes before Franklin hit one of two free throws after an intentional foul on Doug Griggs with 19 seconds left to clinch it.

"I told them they were playing good at halftime, but maybe I shouldn't have said it," said Harris. "These games are usually about 92-90. Madison rushed a couple of shots, and we're glad they did. If they had taken their time, they probably would have won."

Madison-Venice: Too serious? Harris growing tired of rivalry

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Madison-Venice high school basketball rivalry isn't much different than thousands of other rivalries all across the country.

Two neighboring towns go at it hot and heavy on the basketball courts a couple nights each winter — it's a slice of Americana. But at least one of the major players in the local version isn't so sure it's all that much fun right now.

"I'm disappointed in how the fans act at these games," said Venice coach Clinton Harris after the Red Devils' 40-33 win over the Trojans Tuesday. "It's not so much the kids in the stands. It's the grownups who are acting like kids."

Harris and the Devils had dominated the rivalry in recent years, winning 18 straight games from 1985-90 before Madison beat Venice twice last year, including a 72-61 regional win. Several times in the last week Harris had said he couldn't wait until this year's game was over.

"I'm in the community a lot, and all I hear from Madison is how they beat us last year," Harris said. "We never said that much when we were beating them. A lot of these people are treating it like it's an NBA playoff game. We've got high school kids out there trying to learn."

Madison coach Al Collins

"We've got a contract to play (in Madison) next year, but I'm seriously considering not playing them after that."

— Clinton Harris
Red Devil coach

knows emotions run high.

"I'm sure there is a lot of money at stake in the stands when these two schools get together," he said. "And I'm sure that contributes a little to the quality of play sometimes."

If that's true, it was never more evident than it was Tuesday. Venice played a solid first half, but other than that both teams struggled throughout.

"Everybody gets all tight like they're playing for a world championship," said Harris. "That's going to happen as long as the adults provoke it."

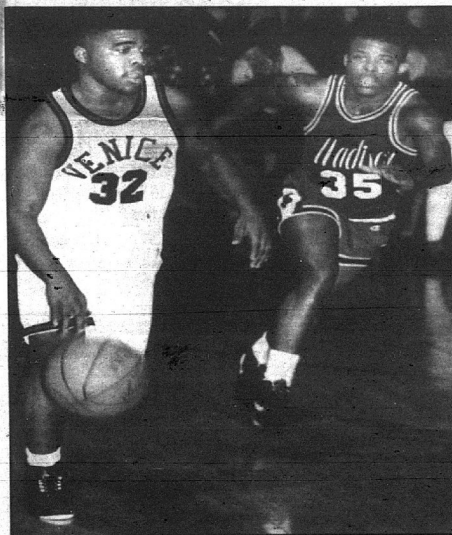

"We've got fans throwing popcorn on the court when they don't like a call. Then I hear the Madison fans yelling 'cheat' because they got some offensive fouls. I thought it was a well-called game."

Collins wasn't happy with the officiating late in the game, but he also admitted his team didn't play well enough to win. Harris, meanwhile, seems to be tiring of the whole rivalry.

"We've got a contract to play (in Madison) next year, but I'm seriously considering not playing them after that," said Harris. Harris and the Red Devils stopped playing another long-time rival, Lovejoy, after a bench-clearing brawl in 1987. But it would be awfully tough for Harris to get all the parties involved to suspend the Madison-Venice series.

"Maybe they can get another coach, but I just don't like some of the things I see and hear right now," said Harris.

The two teams might meet again in the Freedom Regional next month. Perhaps a well-played game in a neutral gym might restore Harris' zest for the rivalry.

Jimmy Wellmaker, like Marcus Franklin and Lowell Norwood, was an ex-Trojan, brings the ball upcourt for the Red Devils as Madison's Ron Lott pursues.

Warriors start new year with 61-50 win at CM

By Greg Shashack
Staff writer

Avenge last season's regional defeat was not a big motivator for the Warriors in their 61-50 victory Tuesday night against Civic Memorial.

The underachieving Warriors have enough problems on their plate without dredging up disappointments from the past. And while Granite City had enough firepower to get past the Eagles in Bethalto and improve to 7-4, the Warriors still are not at the level coach Bill Ohlendorf believes they should be playing.

"We're just very sluggish offensively," Ohlendorf said after his team's first game of the new year. "We did a lot of dumb things, but a lot of that occurs when you don't put the basketball in the hole."

"We had enough shots — simple, easy shots — in the first half to put Bethalto out of the ballgame. We're just not putting the ball in the basket. It's very frustrating."

CM had its own trouble scoring early as the Eagles hit just 2

Recession is taking its toll on manufacturing in Illinois

The ongoing impact of the recession has taken its toll on the Illinois manufacturing sector, according to just-released statistics taken from the 1992 Harris Illinois Industrial Directory.

"Our greatest concern is the fact that new manufacturers or manufacturers that relocated to Illinois within the 12-month period between October 1990 and October 1991 have dropped," said Robert A. Harris, president of Harris Publishing Company of Twinsburg, Ohio.

"What we're seeing is a slow but steady erosion in new manufacturing levels: 1,670 companies opened in 1989, compared to 1,432 in 1990. This year, the decline continued, with only 1,208 new firms opening.

"These figures are offset by companies that have gone out of business, moved or relocated to other states. When these are taken into account, the increase is negligible.

"The total number of manufacturing firms in the state rose a mere 0.67 percent from 21,624 in 1990 to 21,769 in 1991."

As the leading compiler/publisher of industrial directories for mid-America, the Harris research staff contacts virtually 99 percent of the manufacturers in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Missouri, Maryland, Kentucky and West Virginia.

"By virtue of the fact that our information is so comprehensive," Harris said, "we're able to track trends as they develop."

"Illinois has taken a hit, but then so has much of the nation. Among all the states we contact, only Indiana shows a dramatic increase in new business with a 4.8 percent gain over the previous year. Other areas of the country aren't faring nearly as well."

Fran Carlsen, editorial quality manager for Harris, voiced apprehension for Illinois workers. "In compiling information for the 1992 Harris Illinois Industrial Directory, we noted that many companies experienced a decline from last year in the number of workers employed at their facilities," Carlsen said.

"Statewide, there were 41,078 fewer employees in 1991 than in 1990, a 2 percent decline. Most of this workforce reduction resulted from layoffs, plant closings and moving plants to areas where the cost of living and wages are lower than they are in Illinois."

"This is not affecting management as much as hourly employees." "While we added 11,421 new executive names, 10,545 existing names were deleted. This is an increase of 876 executive names, which brings the total count in the directory to 61,936."

Lester W. Brann Jr., president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, voiced cautious optimism about the future.

Although Illinois has not gone untouched by these uncertain economic times, this state's business community has fared better than businesses in many other states," Brann said.

"And as we have during difficult economic times in the past, Illinois will see it through these current conditions and bounce back with greater resilience and economic vigor."

Brann was quick to emphasize the reason for his positive view: "The Illinois Chamber, which has been successful in holding the line on the passage of many anti-business legislative proposals that have surfaced in the past several months — proposals that could have had a negative impact on business — is committed to continuing its work on behalf of the Illinois business community."

"As the state's largest business organization, we are firmly convinced that today's uncertain economic times will soon be yesterday's faded memory and Illinois business will enjoy the security of a prosperous economic climate."

David R. Altany, associate editor at Industry Week Magazine, said the reason for the current trend is rooted in the last decade.

"During the late '80s, small and medium-sized companies didn't have to work too hard to maintain sales close to their full production capacity."

"Due to the recession and more intense competition, many of these same companies in 1991 are working very hard to seek out new sales prospects."
